Wrong Assumptions	Could not able to understand the scenario and guided her to navigate directly to the about page	-	-	-
Help needed	Looking for search option on homepage like any other webistes	-	-	-
Murmurings of Discontent	I guided	-	-	-
How many tries?	1 min	1	1	1
How long?	< 1min	<1min	<1min	<1min

Open ended Questions:

1. Please take a look at the home screen and do not click anywhere, just tell me what was your initial thoughts after looking at the home screen.
Look and feel, color combinations used are perfect !!

2. Could you please tell me what the website is for?
Initially I was confused, why the website is only about one person, later with your guidance I understood what it meant for .

3. Where do you feel like to click or navigate, when you see at the first glance on home screen
Obviously, Menu, because when I look at any new websites, I usually try to explore the information so I would choose menu for that.

4. Is there anything where you particularly like or don't like?
On larger screens (desktop) –Work section– I felt the text weight is dull and dominating with the headings. But that too it's my personal opinion.

Other comments:

1. I am not sure whether the <search> button is a good example to have it on portfolios, but as a user when I am going through any websites, I usually prefer search button.

2. Remaining things are super, the UI, navigation, flow, color combinations everything I liked it.

Test Participant 2:

Name: Srikanth Masetty
Age: 37
Occupation: Aerospace Engineer
Electronic device usage: Mobile, Desktop and Tablets

	Scenario 1	Scenario 2	Scenario 3	Scenario 4
Wrong Assumptions	Initially I was a little confused because you have a short paragraph about you, but then it looks on the bottom as if you are trying to sell me a service of some sort. I see that's not the case now.	Thought that, headings (My Work, Process etc) also a buttons, because the width of the box is looking just like buttons.	-	-

Open ended Questions:

1. Please take a look at the home screen and do not click anywhere, just tell me what was your initial thoughts after looking at the home screen.
Pretty good.

2. Could you please tell me what the website is for?
Easy, can able to tell it's a person portfolio.

3. Where do you feel like to click or navigate, when you see at the first glance on home screen
Obviously, Menu

4. Is there anything where you particularly like or don't like?
Buttons width on work section is more

Test Participant 3:

Initially I was a little confused because you have a short paragraph about you, but then it looks on the bottom as if you are trying to sell me a service of some sort. I see that's not the case now.

2. Could you please tell me what the website is for?
Upon further review, it looks like your portfolio

3. Where do you feel like to click or navigate, when you see at the first glance on home screen
I want to click on the Read More button

4. Is there anything where you particularly like or don't like?
Your color scheme is nice and I like the use of space. I think that you may have too many fonts, which makes it a little distracting. The font with your name seems more playful and less serious than the font beneath it. The Read more button with the white font is nice. The title CONNECT EXPERTS is all upper case, but CSS Animation is not. I was wondering if you wanted to have a Read more button by the animation so you could explain more about how you did it. You have a menu item at the top for Contact, so not sure why you have it on this page. There are a few grammatical errors. "Would you like to work and discuss about opportunities?" would be better as "Would you like to discuss opportunities?" Also "Connect Me On" should be Connect with me on". Nice job

Other comments:
Just an FYI, have an editor look at this for grammar, spelling, punctuation, capitalization)

Test Participant 4:

Name: Surender

Open ended Questions:

1. Please take a look at the home screen and do not click anywhere, just tell me what was your initial thoughts after looking at the home screen.

Color combination is good and sections divided for each category is well placed.

2. Could you please tell me what the website is for?
Yes, the heading says everything as it relates to one person work and personal information.

3. Where do you feel like to click or navigate, when you see at the first glance on home screen

I would like to explore the home screen first and then I will navigate to menu section.

4. Is there anything where you particularly like or don't like?

Likes: simple and understandable UI, there is nothing like 'I don' like' but have a suggestion, needs a faster way to access candidate resume.

Open ended Questions:

1. Please take a look at the home screen and do not click anywhere, just tell me what was your initial thoughts after looking at the home screen.

Too many colors used for the website are distracting for me.

May be for small screens, it will be good if we have only one screen background color.

2. Could you please tell me what the website is for?
Obviously, it's a portfolio.

3. Where do you feel like to click or navigate, when you see at the first glance on home screen
I will explore the home screen, then I would navigate menu section.

4. Is there anything where you particularly like or don't like?

Same as answer for 1st question.
